TEACHER DEVELOPMENT IN THE 21ST CENTURY

2018 TPA CONFERENCE

11TH ANNUAL TEACHER PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT IMPLEMENTATION CONFERENCE | SAN JOSE, CA | OCT. 19-20, 2018
NEW THIS YEAR - GLOBAL PRECONFERENCE DAY AT STANFORD UNIVERSITY, OCT. 18, 2018

OVERVIEW

The Stanford Center for Assessment, Learning and Equity (SCALE) and AACTE have convened the national TPA conference for over a decade. This annual event brings together faculty and supervisors, higher education administrators, state education agencies (SEAs) and P-12 community members who are seeking to deepen their understanding of teacher performance assessment and network within a learning community of programs that implement edTPA – a national performance assessment for pre-service teachers.

All attendees have a common goal of supporting candidates and teacher education programs through an educative experience related to examining evidence of learning and practice. Sessions also address continued support of beginning teachers as they enter the classroom.

We are excited that our Fall 2018 conference will also include a focus on various performance assessment work occurring around the globe.

PRECONFERENCE

Invite-only preconference day for international participants and/or those with an interest in global teacher preparation and assessment practices.

This global forum on "Innovative Approaches to Teacher Preparation and Assessment in the 21st Century" will be held by SCALE at the Stanford Graduate School of Education.

During the preconference, you will engage with leading professionals in performance assessment and faculty from Stanford University's Graduate School of Education. The agenda will include a continental breakfast and lunch, and optional campus tour.

PROPOSALS

Become a presenter! Are you currently engaged in performance assessment work at your college/university or at the policy level? We encourage you to submit an application for presentation during the main TPA conference.
