Institute of Curriculum and Instruction

East China Normal University, Shanghai

- ABOUT US

East China Normal University is a comprehensive research university administered by the Ministry of Education. Within the national “Double First-rate” strategic plan, ECNU is now making great strides towards its goal of “building a high-level university well-known both at homeland and abroad.” The Institute of Curriculum and Instruction (ICI) at East China Normal University is a nationally renowned research institute and think tank designated by the Ministry of Education. The ICI focuses on research projects and activities related to curriculum development and policies, instructional design, curriculum evaluation and policy analysis, and teachers’ professional development. To develop the Institute for the future, we are now inviting outstanding young scholars in the field of education to join our research team at homeland and abroad!
